HANCOCK COUNTY REPORTS

The 4-H Club motto is, To make the best better. That motto seems to symbolize the activities of the county organizer of 4-H Clubs, John W. Smith, county cooperative extension service agent.

Smith, who is located in the Agricultural Building on Nocala Ave., is also in charge of the home economist's office, presently staffed by Miss Ruth Stahan.

Operating as an extension arm to the Mississippi State University, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the county board of supervisors, Smith says his function is mainly to promulgate information on a great many topics of urban and rural life.

"We are called an extension service because we are funded by all three agencies but our theatre of operations includes all areas of the county but they in the city and built-up area or the remotest corner of the county," Smith said on Monday.

Smith has a problem. Not with his job, he is very good at that, but with the enormity of the task his job entails.

As he claims, he is not a specialist in everything but he does know where to find it if the subject falls within his terms of reference.

Just to take a cream sample off the top of his work jar, Smith's "in County" activities are split into several departments.

Horticulture, agronomy (the science of agriculture), dairy work, livestock production, and 4-H, take just a few of his hats.

Roughly, agronomy covers row crop, vegetable and grain production, pasture cultivation, and weed control. The dairy section handles feeding, management, production, distribution, and the like problems, for the county's 18 Grade A dairies. The importance of this assist to the producer can be realized when it is learned the county produced 6,818,084 pounds of Grade A milk in 1968 with a value of $408,500.

Livestock production covers beef cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, goats, and horses. Here Smith says the county has 604 larger farms involved in his activities in this department and a whole host of smaller units under 40 acres.

Speaking of the farm generally, Smith says the number of farms is down but beef cattle numbers are holding their own, swine are on the increase due to the Feeder Pig Association's activities, but poultry production is down with only one commercial egg producer operating in the county. Reason here is that huge concerns now out-produce smaller farm units at a cost far below that possible on a local basis. This is especially true of the broiler chicken farm where the industry has phased out in the county in difference to the multi-quantity producer.

Other areas of county agent attention include entomology, wherein the habits of insects are studied; forestry management, this in co-operation with the Mississippi Forestry Commission; soil conservation, in association with the Soil Conservation Agency; and a casual relationship with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation group and Farmers Home Administration.

Plant all. Smith also checks plants having blight or other depressing signs and sends samples away to Mississippi State University for inspection. College oriented personnel check the samples and return written recommendations for disease correction and treatment.

This procedure is also followed with soil testing. Smith takes samples, forwards them to MSU and reports results. This, in mind, for both city and county residents.

The value of such a service is in the result. Commercial growers get higher yields due to correct soil treatment and fertilization and home owners have better gardens with healthier plants for the same reasons.

The county agent is also interested in fire ant control, supplying trees on bulk buy price basis, advising on termite control, and supplying up to date information on home garden planting dates.

Pecan trees bought through his department average out at between $2.50 to $2.75 for a five to six foot tree. Fruit trees work out at anywhere between $1 and $2.25, according to type and quality. Orders for all types are taken in November each year.

Now lets take a peek at the things Smith can do to help the home owner have a better garden.

He has information on how to zerk ants, bean leaf beetles, blister beetles, cabbageworms, potato beetles, corn earworm, cucumber beetles, cutworms, flea beetles, Mexican bean beetles, pickle and melon worms, serpentine leaf miners, squash vine borers, cucumber beetles, tomato hornworm and fruitworms, vegetable weevils, plant lice, spider mites, and stink bugs, to name just a few.

He has books on lawn care, tree planting, home landscaping, barbecuing (and even how to make the sauce), growing tomatoes, seed saving, and technical papers on correct handling.

Sign Discussed By Council

All members of the Waveland Town Council were present for the regular meeting Tuesday night. The claim check for payroll was approved and paid.

There was considerable discussion relative to the claim check for the Waveland Town Council. The claim check was for $1,000.00. The council members discussed the claim check and the council decided to pay the claim check.

At a regular scheduled meeting of the Hancock County School Board Monday the much confused and discussed problems over teacher personnel problems came to a head. The conflict that has been going on over the past months between Eugene Ladner, County Supt. of Education and Robert Clapp, principal of Hancock North Central, arose in violence. During the board meeting one of the two allegedly struck the other with a physical blow to the face. At this meeting only two of the five board members were present. Education Supt. Eugene E.

Ladner was reportedly treated for a lip laceration, signed an affidavit with the county sheriff's office charging assault and battery against Robert B. Clapp, principal of Hancock North Central School. Clapp was arrested by Sheriff Fred Curet and released in $250 appearance bond pending a hearing before Justice of the Peace Neilus Rhodes on June 27.

The alleged incident occurred in the superintendent's offices with two of the board members present. The regular board meeting was scheduled for Monday morning but the number of trustees which showed up was not sufficient for a quorum. However, a discussion of the problems involved was reportedly underway when the incident between Ladner and Clapp occurred.

The two men are deadlocked on the recommendation of teachers for the 1969-70 school year at North Central.

All but six teachers have been recommended by Clapp, approved by Ladner and by the board. The problem seemingly involves around 6 positions not yet filled.

According to law, only the principal is empowered to recommend teachers for his school. The county superintendent "may" approve these teachers and forward them to the school board for appointment.

Although both the superintendent and the school board are empowered to remove names from the list submitted by the principal, neither has the authority to add names to the list not placed there by the principal.

The controversy reached public attention over two months ago and became serious when teacher recommendations for the positions open had not reached the school board by the April 15 deadline. At a meeting a week prior to that date, the school board urged Ladner and Clapp to put their heads together and come to an agreement on teacher recommendations by the deadline.

The state attorney general's office has informed the school board it cannot act without the recommendation of teachers from Ladner and Clapp.

However, school board attorney Walter James Phillips, on April 7, gave the board his opinion that any action they might take to keep the school open with the proper number of teachers would be upheld if it were contested in court. He also told the board the law gives the board the duty and responsibility to operate the school, although not specifically giving it a course of action in such a deadlock.

Parents of students at the school have protested the deadlock, many taking sides with one or the other of the two opponents in the conflict. Some demonstrations have taken place at the school involving students.

When informed of Monday morning's incident by Sheriff Curet, the board of supervisors instructed its attorney, Joe Benvenuti, to confer with attorney Phillips on a possible solution to the problem.

Many Items Cleared By Supervisors

At the Monday, June 2, meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors all members of the board were present.

The bid of Sam Benigno of $100.00 for a drag line was accepted.

Other items on the agenda were disposed of as follows:

Granting right of way and easement for power lines to Coast Electric Power Association at West Hancock County Harbor and Industrial Area.

Accepted counteroffer by Hancock Bank for Tract No. 10 at the West Hancock County Harbor and Industrial Area.

Low bid by Superior Utilities, Inc., accepted and contract No. 7 awarded for construction of water mains in West Hancock County Harbor and Industrial Area.

Final plans and specifications by Michael Baker, Jr., Inc., for contract No. 4, covering water and sewage facilities at Hancock County Airport were approved and advertising for bids on the contract was ordered.

Fromherz Engineers final plans and specifications for contract No. 8, Dolphins, were accepted. Advertising for bids on this contract in the West Hancock County Harbor and Industrial Area was ordered.

A deed for a parcel of land in the West Hancock County Harbor and Industrial Area was ordered corrected. It was for a sub-station site for the Coast Electric Power Association.

The board approved payment of Claim Docket "E".

The next meeting of the board of supervisors will begin at ten o'clock Monday morning, June 9.

Hancock Fishing Rodeo To Feature Fleet Blessing

"Deus qui dividens aquas ab arida..." (O God, who divides the waters from the land...) These words will be echoed once again to petition God to grant his blessing on those who follow the water, by Father William J. Kelley, S.V.D., on June 14th at 2 P.M. As Chaplain of the Fleet for the Hancock County Fishing Rodeo Association, he will repeat the blessing, during traditional ceremonies, from a boat anchored just off the American Legion jetty in Bay St. Louis.

History traces the ceremony back two thousand years to early Christians who asked a blessing for the safety and good fortune of ships they sent across the Mediterranean. Centuries later, French seafarers of the Normandy and Brittany coasts took with their pilgrims the same words.

This second day event of the three-day annual Hancock County Fishing Rodeo will have participation by craft from both Mississippi and Louisiana. New Strip Gets First Aircraft

Two light planes landed on Tuesday at the new Hancock airport located north of Interstate Highway 10 with access off Rt. 608.

The first plane touched down about 8 a.m. and the pilot asked workmen as to the availability of taxi service to convey him and his party to town. Hearing none was available he blasted his flying machine back into the wide blue.

The second heavier than the other air craft dropped in looking for gas. This plane was a fish school spotter whose pilot announced his intention to utilize the flying field as soon as gas dispensing tanks were installed. Fortunately he had enough fluid left in the aircraft's tanks to regain lost altitude and fly on to a service station elsewhere.

Hancock Industry to Cover World Markets

Explosive Devices, Inc., now in Kiln, has begun limited production with 12 employees at its plant area.

Designed by Peter L. Deane, the company is presently operating out of its plant in Kiln, Miss. It has been set up to phase out that production center in favor of the new location.

One 60 by 26-foot factory building is already in place at the Kiln plant area and work has begun on locating an additional five similar units.

The complex is located on 266 acres, sold or leased to the company by Jack Loh of Kiln, and is situated to the west of Rt. 608 on the old Selph Road. Attorney for the company is Walter James Phillips of Bay St. Louis, while Michael Haas, also of Bay St. Louis, handled the Loh interests.

Principal organizer of the move was Alton 'Dolph' Keller, Best 3 Supervisor, Hancock County, who introduced the company to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

In speaking of his expansion plans in terms of employees needed to do the job, DeMarsh said that by the end of this year he hopes to have 75 people working.

"By the mid-'70's this figure should climb to 150," the plant manager allowed.

Leon Smith, now of Pica-yune, will be in charge of general production at the facility, and Dave Barry, also of Pica-yune, temporarily handling foreman chores at the Hancock factory, will be in charge of quality control. William Jeff Smith, who hopes to settle in Bay St. Louis, has been assigned as federal government representative.

Jeff Smith's job is to prove production meets specification and he has responsibility of checking and approving each batch of 'end run' before final shipment. His official title is Quality Assurance Representative.

Another Pearl River County man involved in high level operations is H. Jack Thorman. He is in charge of foreign operations and is due to leave soon to complete some work undertaken by Explosive Devices in Australia.

And, herein lies the story. Explosive Devices, Inc. is dedicated to the manufacturing of all sorts of explosive and pyrotechnic gadgets but, to help things along, they are also in the field applying these products to the places they do most good.

ing and growing methods for almost all types of garden plants, shrubs, and flowers.

In addition to this, for the farmer, Smith's free booklet stand handles pamphlets on soybean weed control and the soybean crop is becoming one of the county's biggest income sources with more than 2,500 acres in that crop in '68, fertilizer application, silage production, grasses including Coastal Bermuda, crimson clover, red clover, fescue, dallis, rye, bahia, white clover, and grain sorghums.

Other subjects include cattle grazing, cattle pasture control, dairy production testing, feeding dairy cows for profit (a nice word), calves, horn fly control, steer management, cattle and calves, livestock prices, cattle production, livestock parasite control, sheep management, lambs, hog production for profit, cost returns from hogs, poultry pests, pullet sickness, pasture management, forestry product control, fence post treatment, sheep pasture and parasite control, beef and sheep handling equipment.

Also, pecan orchard care and production, pecan insect and disease control, tung nut production, and all sorts of information on commercial vegetable and fruit production.

If that isn't enough, Smith keeps information on gardening without a plot (that's a tricky one), control of household insects, soil testing, control of nematodes, roach and waterbugs, and, as a sort of big finish, a pamphlet on fallout protection.

Smith again reminds folks that his office is available to everybody in the county.

To furnish all this information for presentation today, Smith spent an hour or more talking to a writer of doubtful merit. The only thing he was not asked is what he does in his spare time.

Outrigger, Inc., employee registrations at the port and harbor office have now climbed to 175, in a switch of subjects, and more county residents have phoned in their intentions to try for interview.

Latest on the operation is that the whole shebang is to double in size, due to orders received for sea food and ice, and more employees than originally intended will be hired.

Staking for buildings has begun at the site, and conveyors and the like, for support to plant, have been purchased.

Enquiries to this column are invited and should be addressed to Neville R. Jacob, public relations officer, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, P. O. Box 69, Miss., 39520.

Bible School Goes Into Second Week

Vacation Bible School is in the second week at First Baptist Church, Waveland, with a record enrollment and attendance being attained in the first week. At the close of the first week there were 134 enrolled with an average daily attendance of 115. Friday's attendance was the lowest of the week because it was Memorial Day and many people went out of town for the weekend, but the attendance on that day exceeded the highest attendance on any single day during the annual school of last year.

All the faculty are most happy for the fine response to this important time of Bible study, and urge regular and faithful attendance each day.

Parents' Night, graduation time for those who have been in the school and a time when all parents are urged to attend to view the actual work done by the pupils during the two weeks, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Friday, June 6. A special treat for the parents, as well as for the pupils - a showing of pupil and faculty activities on movie film taken during the school - will be shown. This is the second consecutive year for this to be done as a result to the fine response to such a showing last year. However, some changes have been made which will improve the quality of the film as well as more footage to be shown. It is believed that every parent's pride and ego swells just a bit when he sees his own child in something like this, and for this reason every parent is urged to come and take a part in these activities.

Ethel Gex Celebrates 50 Years with Law Firm

On May 31, 1935, Miss Ethel Gex celebrated the completion of fifty years with the law firm started by her father, Walter S. Gex, Jr. It was on June 1, 1885 that "Miss Ethel" as she is known to her many friends, started with the firm of Gex & Waller. Except for brief vacations "Miss Ethel" has been in her desk on the second floor of the Merchants Bank Building every day for the last fifty years.

She has been a Director of the Merchants Bank & Trust Company since 1924 and also serves as a Director of the Merchants Insurance Agency. Despite the monotony of this tedious "Miss Ethel" intends to continue with "business as usual." She will, however, take a little extra time off to indulge herself with her two favorite pastimes of playing bridge and just relaxing.

The occasion was marked utilization of the Kiln plant's products.

Basically the company's operation center around three main contract sources; 1, military ordinance; 2, civilian application; 3, oil field work.

The first group consists of flares, fuses, signals, projectiles and the like, but need not necessarily include the final product. DeMarsh said that very often various contractors work on explosive device components and never see or know what the final or end product looks like or how it is employed.

The second segment of the list covers the great variety of uses explosives have in the civilian field. In giving an example of the type of process involved, DeMarsh cited the composition of some pipelines as an example.

In some instances, he said, pipeline exteriors demand one type of metal, that resists attack by environmental conditions and has high external pressure ratings, but to successfully resist the corrosive action of its chemical cargo content it has to have a stainless steel liner, or inner tube.

The process of bonding the two different types of metals together to form a single unit is a highly skilled operation. The final, as such, is under the careful attention of Explosive Devices, Inc. personnel.

Other civilian applications of company products include the production of shot gun shells and auto trouble flares, all under various brand names and to a like variety of specifications.

Of interest is that the Kiln factory production schedule, which is now limited to stage production of Very Pistol flares, will include shot gun shell assembly by this fall.

Under the third heading of main interests, oil field work, all company activities are being conducted overseas.

This facet mainly consists of blasting pipe-line trenches in the Middle East, Africa, and Far East. Plus, of course, the previously mentioned Australian project.

Building construction plans at Explosive Devices incorporate some unique features. Each assembly building is equipped with four magazines or bunkers off from, but attached to, the main building.

It is in these bunkers that any hazardous operation is performed by an operator separated from the inner bunker by explosion proof steel doors. These doors, of which there are two to each bunker entrance - in the form of a type of 'air lock', also separate the bunker from the main building.

This, however is just the beginning of the safety features involved.

If some unforeseen accident should occur inside one of the remote control operated bunkers that resulted in an explosion, the force of the explosion would be almost nullified within the confined area as all ceiling and wall membranes are constructed of materials designed to disintegrate under moderately excessive pressure.

The force of the explosion therefore would push away from the building and dissipate in the 'buffer zone' surrounding each unit.

To further ensure employee safety, both the company and the government maintain a regular and continuing safety inspection throughout the plant.

Chemicals utilized in explosive item assembly are heated and dried to inflict a high degree of stability and all fittings are explosive proof and floors, spark-proof.

As an aside, company engineers at the Kiln location are busy working on an incendiary fire destroyer designed to prevent a recurrence of the USS Pueblo incident where crew members apparently lacked such units for destruction of secret material prior to the ship being boarded by hostile military forces.

Prior to shipping, Explosive Devices, Inc.'s products are boxed and one box out of every pre-determined number is chosen at random to get the 'shake' test. In this test the box is mounted on a machine which shakes it about in a manner very similar to that of a store-side paint mixing machine. Engineers then re-open the box and inspect the shipment to verify that packaging materials and the flares have withstood the imposed stress loads.

As production measures step up to will plant security, for safety reasons, until the entrance road will become a 'limited access' affair.

Also under construction is a 'light tunnel' which is used to test company products. Sample wares are to be detonated in the tunnel and engineers, housed in a separate 'instrument room', will take readings of such things as explosion duration, force, light brilliance, thrust factor, density, and vibration.

Other items to be constructed or under construction include an artesian well and office building.

Three students received the American Legion Awards. Normally only two are selected to receive this award, but two of the students tied for the honor. The students receiving the above were: Tommy Joe McArthur, Elva Lee Walters and Ernest Keys.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the family of Aaron Leroy Carver, Jr., who parted this life on Wednesday, May 14.

Regular meetings of the Pearlington Parent-Teachers Organization will be held through the summer months. The next scheduled meeting will be on the second Tuesday in June. This meeting is of great importance and everyone should attend. Cards will be sent as to the time and place.

On Saturday, May 24 a personal shower was given at the First Southern Baptist Church for pretty Becky Wardle, bride-to-be of James Dewitt (Bucky) Reynolds. Miss Wardle is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Wardle of Pearlington. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Gail Griffin and Mrs. Annette York. Those attending were friends of Miss Wardle's in the intermediate and Junior girls class at the church. Refreshments of cupcakes and punch were served.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL Monday, June 2 is the opening day of Vacation Bible School. Time will be from 8:30 to 11:30. V.B.S. will be for the week of June 2 through 6. Children and young people of Pearlington are invited to attend.

Happy birthday wishes go to Becky Wardle who will celebrate her birthday on Sunday, June 1.

Mrs. Ernestine Davis, a well loved lady of this community entered Ochsner's Foundation Hospital on Monday, May 12 and had operations performed on both legs. Reports from her family say she is in good spirits considering that she has cast on from waist to toe. She misses the friendly people of Pearlington terribly. Anyone wishing to send cards should address them to Room 502-B, Fifth Floor, New Orleans, La. We all miss talking with Mrs. Davis and hope her a speedy recovery.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Celia Walling, mother of Mrs. John Wardle, upon the loss of her sister Miss Eileen Gaudet of Raceland, La.

Sympathy is also extended to Mrs. Forrest Summers, whose father passed away on May 29 in Picayune.

The short poem below was written by Edwin Markham. If after reading it the first time it's meaning is not clear, please read it again.

Little Theatre to Present The "Music Man" in the Round

Meredith Willson's hit musical, THE MUSIC MAN, will be presented by the Little Theatre at the Bay Junior High gymnasium on the nights of June 18, 20, and 21.

Directing the ambitious production which has been under constant rehearsal since Easter, is Mrs. J. K. McKenna, whose presentation of SOUTH PACIFIC last summer made Little Theatre musical history. Starring in the cast of fifty will be Bunk Gardner as "The Music Man" and Mrs. Richard Ford in the part of Marian, roles made famous by Robert Preston and Shirley Jones.

Director of the orchestra will be Richard Ford, band director for Bay Junior and Senior High Schools.

This presentation of THE MUSIC MAN will be a "first" for Bay St. Louis, as never before has a major production been shown here in the popular "in the round" form of staging. This musical lends itself particularly well to such a form of presentation, and it was for accommodating the movement and scope of action required that the decision was made to use the Junior High School gymnasium rather than the Little Theatre.

As in the case of last summer's SOUTH PACIFIC, THE MUSIC MAN will be a Little Theatre extra, not included in the four regular season plays. Proceeds from the performance will be used to finance the theater's work and to make improvements to its facilities.

B-WYC Members Sail At St. Andrew's Club
St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club, Panama City, Florida, was host this past weekend for the Candier Regatta.

Participating sailors for Bay-Waveland Yacht Club were Jack Manerian, Eddie Heath and Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Argus.

Going from Bay St. Louis to view the races were Mrs. Jack Manerian, Mrs. Edward Heath and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Poindester and son Mike.

St. Andrew's Bay Club won the event.

First Baptist Church to Show Motion Picture

The World Wide Pictures film, "The Restless Ones," is to be shown at the First Baptist Church of Waveland on Saturday night of this week, June 7, at 8:00 p.m. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend. The youth of the area should attend the movies, said Rev. Hasson, "The Restless Ones" is a penetrating motion picture that dares to provide an answer to youth's relentless search for reality.

In the film, there is a special screen appearance of Billy Graham. He says about this movie, "This film goes beyond mere analysis of our times, decrying of our situation and cordial portrayal of our failures, it provides an answer - the answer of faith and commitment. You see it, and urge others to see it. For our young people's sake. For a better world."

Others have said that "The Restless Ones" is: "... the motion picture that tells the world the truth!" "... a frank, sometimes startling portrayal of the thoughts and actions of today's teen age," "... their expressions of pent-up frustration ... their searchings for approval, discipline and guidance ... their yearnings for love and understanding ... their attempts to find security and to express maturity ... their longings for something real and meaningful." "... a 'must-see' screen event for those who care: parents, young people, educators, civic leaders, businessmen," "... a searching portrayal of today's teenagers, set to the heartbeat of their trials and triumphs."

The response already received since first announcing the showing, indicates a near capacity attendance; therefore, everyone is urged to come early. An attempt to get everyone who wants to see this free showing of this full-length film into the house and provide as many as possible with a seat. The showing will be in the sanctuary of the church.

Rev. Hasson stated "we are most fortunate in this area to have the privilege to see this film, and especially to see without having to pay an admission fee. Dr. Billy Graham has just released it for showing in some of the churches of the Gulf Coast area in connection with the summer Gulf Coast Crusade For Christ scheduled for July 20 through August 3. Dr. Grady Wilson, an associate of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association will be the preacher in the summer crusade.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD A. PENTON

LaFontaine-Penton Wedding Solemnized

Miss Barbara Ann LaFontaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Monroe LaFontaine of Lakeshore, Miss., became the bride of Ronald Anthony Penton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Tyner of Bay St. Louis, at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 1, in St. John's Catholic Church, Lakeshore.

Rev. James Devaney performed the double ring ceremony.

Arrangements of white gladioli and greenery decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white lace over satin street length dress fashioned with a round neckline trimmed with sequins and long sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a satin pillbox and she carried a white missal topped with an arrangement of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Larry Favre was her sister's bridesmaid. She wore a pink silk brocade dress and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white daisies.

Johnny Penton served his brother as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Lerner's Friendly Inn, Ansley.

The bride's table, overlaid with a white linen cloth, was centered with a four-tiered cake trimmed with white spun sugar roses and topped with the traditional bride and groom. Fern and white blossoms encircled the bottom tier. Mrs. Roland Necaise, godmother of the bride, presided at the cake table. The bride and groom both attended Bay Senior High School.

Following a wedding trip they will make their home in Waveland. Mr. Penton is employed by Rittiner Industrial Enameling, Inc., Bay St. Louis.

Celebrate 35th Anniversary

On Tuesday, June 5, at their home on Darwood Point Mr. and Mrs. James Normand quietly celebrated their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary. Only their immediate family consisting of their two daughters with their husbands and their son and his wife were present.

The Normands were married in St. Bernard Parish, Louisiana and resided in New Orleans until coming to Bay St. Louis in 1938. Mr. Normand has been a deputy sheriff since 1968.

MISS CATHY ALFORD, McComb's "Miss Hospitality" for 1968, is the first official entry in the statewide Miss Hospitality Contest which is sponsored by the Travel Department of the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board. This is McComb's second consecutive year to lead the statewide contest. The 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Alford, Jr. will compete in the 20th annual event which is scheduled for July 23 through 26 in Biloxi.

The Odd Couple Makes Hit at Little Theatre

(A review by P'Inconnu)

It was quite obvious during the three performances of THE ODD COUPLE at the Little Theatre last weekend that a capacity audience each evening was abandoning itself to unrestrained laughter, with no invading thoughts of campus disorders, wars, or rumors of wars to mar the refreshing moments. Our hats are off to playwright Neil Simon, who proved once again, as he did in BAREFOOT IN THE PARK, that even for the sophisticated audiences of today, comedy does not necessarily involve sex, and that a box office hit can still have the same basic ingredients of fun that have tickled the fancies of theater-goers for centuries. THE ODD COUPLE was just that...fun without slapstick, hilarity uncomplicated by social satire or sex. Mary Carter's top-drawer directing, an especially talented cast, and a hard-working stage crew made the most of Neil Simon's wonderful lines. No one who saw this play is likely to forget it.

Cast in the two leading roles were the Little Theatre's chairman of production, Burt Barrett, and last year's Louis Award winner for best supporting role, Lloyd Wilson. Part of the success of the play stems from this inspired choice of casting. For Barrett and Wilson were perfect foils for each other and created entirely believable characters with whom the audience could identify on the one hand and laugh at on the other. Never for a moment did either actor step out of character, every motion, every facial expression, every inflection of voice calculated for maximum effect. Lloyd Wilson brought to vivid life the absurdly pathetic, unbearably irritating Felix, kicked out by a wife who couldn't endure one more moment of his allergies and his passion for cooking and housecleaning. Burt Barrett, director of such outstanding plays as The Diary of Anne Frank, Anastasia, and The Miracle Worker, displayed now talents as an actor as well in his hilarious interpretation of irresponsible, hearty Oscar who took the outcast Felix into his one-grand-meas-of-an-apartment and found life becoming more and more frustrating as it became more and more antisepic.

As any play-lover knows, however, the success of a play cannot really be determined by the excellence of the leading actors, for often it is ruined by one bad moment in a supporting role. It is in this respect that director Mary Carter excels particularly, for she insists on naturalness and near perfection even from her most minor players and pays great attention to the most minute details. In THE ODD COUPLE the background of reality and the constant sparkle of humor came from the fast-paced dialogue of four poker-playing friends... Joe Barbo, Edward Craig, Charles Richardson, and Victor Frankiewicz... and from two glamorous New Orleans neighbors... Ruth Furr and Nannette Madden... whose lively, spontaneous performances added immeasurably to the overall comedy. An especial favorite with the audience was former professional actor Joe Barbo, who rated his own extemporaneous burst of applause after an especially brilliant scene.

Mrs. Carter, winner of the 1968 Director's Award for the best production of the year (Everybody Loves Opal), showed once again that comedy is unquestionably her forte. Her innate knack for directing comedy plus Neil Simon's talent for writing it created the sort of evening at the theater that families can enjoy.

Today it's just a skeleton against the sky. But tomorrow people will live in it, and it will become a home. Within its walls, the pattern of life will be carried out.

But will this be enough? As a home, will this house stand or fall as the years pass? Will the people who live in it develop into better, stronger human beings? Or will they acquire selfishness, greed, indifference, conceit?

Remember the foolish man who built his house on sand, only to have the rains wash it away, and the wise man who built his house permanently on a rock? The future of this house — the future of a home — depends upon its foundation.

In the story, the "rock" symbolizes the Church. Those who build their faith upon its foundation will take into their homes the strength to keep them standing, regardless of what life may bring.

I live in this area and hear a lot of good things about Lamar-Lane Chevrolet and I also know some of the men who work there. This gave me confidence in my purchase of a new car and the service I can expect if I ever need it. I am a local contractor and one of my former employees also told me about the wonderful way Lamar-Lane Chevrolet treats their customers. I highly recommend John Gallagher at Lamar-Lane Chevrolet to all of my friends.
